Several times the Telegram has felt it a duty to refute the charges made against the Wheeling Intelligencer that it had gotten to be a Democratic paper. We were loath to believe that such a life-long loyal state organ of the party could be other than rock-ribbed in the faith. There was never any question about its loyalty until after it went under the management of one of the partisan Democrats in the state several months ago. Even then it was not believed that its policy would be changed or that it would not run strictly in the interests of the Republican party although there were some who through self-interest hurried to see Democratic propinquities and at once proclaimed the Intelligencer a Democratic paper. It course lately seems to confirm those early opinions and the lastest to confirm them is that after Harrison county Republicans held their primary election in the regular way and the people selected their candidates for county office and expressed themselves on the senatorial matter decided in favor of Thorn over Harmer by an overwhelming majority. The Intelligencer takes up a local paper which is known all over Harrison county to be run strictly in the interests of the Democratic party and undertakes to endorse its course in attempting to disrupt the Republican party in this state. The Intelligencer if it desires to maintain its standing as the state organ of the Republican party of West Virginia should strain from entering counties where the party has made its elections and assist in attempts to turn the county over to the Democrats. The prominence it gives the fight the Harrison County Herald is making against Thorn, the choice of the Republicans of this county, for the state senate by an overwhelming majority convicts it of an attempt to do the sort of thing and is an indication that it has snatched its fair name as a Republican state organ and has lost part of its old-time loyalty to the party. The Intelligencer should hasten to place itself right since it has either been led into this betrayal of the party by mistake or has made up its mind to fight the battles of Democracy for it. The Republican party in Harrison county calls upon it to support its nominees for office and that means that they do not propose to stand for any attempt on its part to aid in turning the county over to the Democratic party.

Four years ago when the Telegram exposed a well-laid plan by the Democrats to dislodge the Intelligencer in this state there were quick denials and the Telegram was denounced as unfair and not telling the truth. This was done because it was not then deemed the proper time to take such action. Democracy was timid, but the longer it thought over its cover-up plans the more impatient it became and unwisely some one made a slip of the tongue—Wood Daley, we believe it was—and the cat being out of the bag, they then proceeded to make the best they could of it. First, however, they denied that Daley ever said it, but the evidence was against them and they had to then

And when he goeth unto the agent

And in due season he findeth that the agent has gotten his dates mixed when he spoke of the notness of the house in the winter season and the coldness there, in the summer.

For verily, in the time of winter it is colder than the smile of the maiden who saith, "I will be a sister to you."

And in summer it is hotter than our doors.

But it is ventilated well, yea, so well that the cold grave doth come into the parlor and bring its friends and hold a social session all the winter.

And when he goeth unto the agent

And the man renteth the house.

For he is a foolish man, and one that believeth all that is told unto him.

Yea, he is a good thing and a cinch,

And he causeth the rental agent to smile in his sleeve, even unto the elbow thereof.
